SUMMARY OF CLASS OF 2010 SURVEY
EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

In 2010, the Indiana University of Pennsylvania Career Development Center conducted a survey of the graduating classes of August 2009, December 2009, and May 2010. E-mail addresses were obtained from the Foundation for IUP database for those graduates who had provided addresses after graduation. Each class was surveyed three times in order to obtain the highest possible response rate.

A total response rate of nine percent was achieved following the final survey of the May 2010 class in February 2011. Of the 2,424 surveys sent, 224 responded. Based on their responses, IUP's Class of 2010 indicated an eighty-seven percent "Productive" rate within six months after graduation. "Productive" rate is indicated by those who responded that they were Employed Full-time or Part-time, Pursuing Additional Education, or Not Seeking Employment. Thirteen percent of the Class of 2010 indicated they were Still Seeking Employment.

Of the 137 graduates who responded, 110 (80%) indicated they were employed in the field of their choice, and 101 (74%) indicated that they were employed in their major. Eighty percent of those who responded felt that IUP had adequately, more than adequately, or well prepared them for employment. A list of the various employers who hired members of the Class of 2010, as well as job titles, is included in this report.

Of various means of obtaining employment, twenty-seven percent of the respondents indicated that they got their job through networking (a personal connection, a faculty connection, an alumni connection, or a networking event). Another twenty-five percent of the graduates indicated that they had found their job on-line through various websites. Eleven percent had obtained their position through an internship or other pre-professional experience.

Twenty-two graduates indicated that they were pursuing full- or part-time additional education. Seventy-percent were in a graduate or first-professional program; nine percent were pursuing a certification program; and four percent were taking courses but not pursuing an additional degree. Seventy-nine (79) percent who responded that they were pursuing additional education felt that IUP had adequately, more than adequately, or well prepared them for graduate school.

Of those graduates in a graduate or first-professional program, twenty-five (25) percent were pursuing Business, twenty (20) percent were pursuing Health Science/Medicine, fifteen (15) percent were in Education and another fifteen (15) percent were in the Social Sciences. Ten percent pursued a Law degree, another ten percent were studying Arts/Humanities, and five percent were studying Life Sciences/Physical Sciences. A list of the various graduate schools which enrolled the Class of 2010 is included in this report.
