PURPOSE:

The university is committed to effective records retention to preserve its history, meet legal standards, optimize the use of space, minimize the cost of record retention, and ensure that outdated and useless records are destroyed.

SCOPE:

The University Policy for the Retention of Records is applicable to all departmental offices and other offices of the University and the university records (see the "Definitions" Section of this document) created, maintained and disposed of by those offices.

OBJECTIVE:

Indiana University of Pennsylvania requires consistent treatment of records. Maintenance, retention, and disposal procedures for university records (see the "Definitions" Section of this document) must be followed systematically by staff in designated official repositories.

In addition, duplicate or multiple copies of these records, retained in locations other than official repositories (see the "Definitions" Section of this document), must also be disposed of when they are outdated and no longer useful.

This policy is intended to ensure that the university:

- meets legal standards;
- optimizes the use of space;
- minimizes the cost of record retention;
- preserves the history of the university;
- destroys outdated and useless records.

POLICY:

Indiana University of Pennsylvania requires that different types of records be retained for specific periods of time, and has designated official repositories for their maintenance. These records must be managed according to procedures that are outlined in this document.

DEFINITIONS:

These definitions apply to these terms as they are used in this policy:

Active Record	A record with current administrative use for the department that generated it. Records remain active for varying numbers of years, depending on the purpose for which they were created.
Archival Record	A record that is inactive; not required to be retained in the office in which it originated or was received; and has permanent or historic value. Archival records are retained and preserved indefinitely in the University Archives.
E-Mail Record	An e-mail record with current administrative, legal or fiscal value. Records remain active for varying numbers of years, depending on the purpose for which they were created. Records remain active for varying numbers of years, depending on the purpose for which they were created.
E-Mail Non-Record	Communications that serve no administrative, legal or fiscal purpose to the University. It contains information that is personal, chit-chat, information only or will be maintained by a separate department for operational, fiscal or legal purposes. E-mail non-records are to be disposed of immediately.
E-Mail Transitory Record	A Transitory e-mail record has short term administrative, legal or fiscal value once the administrative, legal or fiscal use has expired, has little or no documentary or evidential value or is useful for a short period of time to ensure that a task is complete or prepare a final product. A transitory e-mail record should be disposed of as soon as it is no longer needed for evaluation or discussion toward a final product.

DEFINITIONS (Continued):

Official Repository	The unit designated as having responsibility for retention and timely destruction of particular types of official university records. Such responsibility is assigned to the unit's administrative manager or a designee.
Possession of a Record	A record possessed by the university or a record in the possession of a third party with who the university has contracted.
Right to Know Record	A record, including a financial record, of the university that is not exempt under section 708 of the Right to Know Law, Act 2008-3, is not exempt from being disclosed under any other Federal or State law or regulation or judicial order or decree, or is not protected by a privilege.
University Archives	This includes permanent retention of official records and reports of the university, its officers and component parts; maps and architectural records; audiovisual materials including still photographs and negatives, motion picture film, oral history interviews, audio and video tapes; and artifacts and ephemera documenting the university's history.
University Archivist	The individual responsible for 1) designating which official university records are archival; and 2) effecting the transfer of archival records from the office in which they originated or were received to the University Archives at such times and in the manner and form prescribed by the Archives and subject to the appropriate retention and disposition schedules that are outlined in this document.
University Record	The original copy of any record. Official repositories for these records are identified in Tables I and II of this document.

Additional retention definitions/information:

- Documents may be stored digitally in soft copy or filed as hard copy. Reference PA ST 42 Pa. C.S.A. §6109
- Contract information must be kept 3 years after date of final payment. Retention policy therefore states 4 years but if there are held payments past one year, the procurement code takes precedent and it must be retained 3 years past date of final payment (Reference §563 and 564).
- Correspondence/emails kept as records include any official communications to the suppliers about the bid process, emails relating to award decisions and correspondence as part of the debriefing process. All other emails between members of the evaluation team or communications between procurement and the requesting department that is informational only are considered transitory and are deleted.

RESPONSIBILITIES (Continued):

Procurement

- The final evaluation matrix is kept as part of the official record with the awarded contract. Hand-written notes or conversational emails of the evaluation team are considered transitory materials and are not retained.
- Unsuccessful bidder information is retained for 6 months in the event that there are bid protest situations or performance issues with the awarded contract.
- If information is requested that is past the retention date but the proper retention policies were not followed and the document has not been deleted/discarded, it must be provided as part of the open record legislation.
- Any proposal information distributed as part of the RFP evaluation must be returned to procurement after the evaluations are complete so that multiple copies are not retained. Procurement is responsible for retaining the “official record” documents.
- As it relates to open record disclosure, any information that a supplier deems as “proprietary” or “confidential” must be reviewed by the open records officer and legal counsel to determine the validity of their definition. If information is deemed proprietary, it should be redacted and the redacted copy should be retained with the official copy of record.

PROCEDURES:

Responsibilities for Managing Official University Records

Departments that maintain university records are called “official repositories.” These administrative units are responsible for establishing appropriate record retention management practices. Each department’s administrative manager or a designee must:

- implement the unit’s and/or office’s record management practices;
- ensure that these management practices are consistent with this policy;
- educate staff within the administrative unit in understanding sound record management practices;
- preserve inactive records (see the “Definitions” Section of this document) of historic value, and transfer those records to the University Archives;
- ensure that access to confidential files is restricted. Long term restrictions on access to selected archival records should be negotiated at the time of their transfer to the University Archives;
- destroy inactive records that have no archival value upon passage of the applicable retention period.

PROCEDURES (Continued):

If you have any questions about your responsibilities, contact the University Records Manager (see the “Contacts” Section of this document), who will work closely with you to ensure understanding of this policy and implementation of these responsibilities.

Preserving or Disposing of Official University Records

When the prescribed retention period (see Tables I and II, which follow) for official university records has passed, a determination of whether to preserve or dispose of the documents must be made. To decide if the record is of historic value to the university, consult the University Archivist (see the “Definitions” Section of this document) who has the authority to designate which records are archival.

Option A Archival Records

If you have determined that the records are archival, they may be transferred to University Archives (see the “Definitions” Section of this document). Call the University Records Manager to:

1. Review records to be sent to University Archives.
2. Request archival boxes (1 full file drawer=2 boxes).
3. Request a transfer from department to Archived Records.
 - Physical Records – Enter a work order to have the documents transferred by Grounds.
 - Electronic Records – Contact the IT Department.

Option B Non-archival Records

If you have determined that it is appropriate to dispose of the records, destroy them in one of the following ways:

1. Recycle non-confidential paper records.
2. Shred or otherwise render unreadable confidential records.
3. Erase or destroy electronically stored data with the exception of records which are logged as part of the institutions record imaging systems.

Option C Imaged Records

Federal guidelines indicate that imaged records remain part of the permanent record.

Caution: Periodically review records generated and maintained in university information systems or equipment (including mainframe, mini, and micro computing/storage systems) to ensure that these requirements are met.

Retention:
Location and Duration

Tables 1 and 2, which follow, list the official repositories for university records as well as how long these records must be retained.

Record retention periods may be increased by government regulation, judicial or administrative consent order, private or governmental contract, pending litigation or audit requirements. Such modifications supersede the requirements listed in this policy. Suspension of record destruction required by any of these reasons will be accomplished by a notice sent out to affected units by the Office of Legal Counsel, the University Audit Office, or the Office of Finance and Administration.

Note: No document list can be exhaustive. Questions regarding the retention period for any specific document or class of documents not included in these tables should be addressed with University Legal Counsel.

Caution: Departments and units that are not official repositories and that retain duplicate or multiple copies of these university records should dispose of them when they are no longer useful or as defined by this policy.
