Summary of Changes

Deletion of ANTH 272 as a controlled elective

Substitution of GEOG 104 for SOC 151 as "recommended" Social Science Knowledge Area

Deletion of other recommended courses

Specify ANTH 480 as only available Theory course.

Rationale for Changes:

The proposed changes are for modest deletions from the list of optional courses, in part reflecting the patterns of course enrollments that our students have followed for the past few years. We have found that the GEOG 104 course is a good complement to the introductory sequence of anthropology courses and hence one that we would like to recommend to our majors. Two courses are being deleted from the controlled electives; the first ANTH 272 is being deleted because it has not been offered in over seven years, and there is little likelihood that we will be able to staff this course in the future, so in order to have a more accurate representation of available courses, we believe this course should be deleted from the list of options. The second course that is being deleted, SOC 447 as an alternative to ANTH 480, is being deleted as this course no longer exists. ANTH 480 is offered with sufficient frequency that all of our majors are able to complete this class as part of their course of study and we believe this course is an essential component for a degree in Anthropology in all of our tracks, a sentiment that was reinforced in our five year self-study and supported by our external reviewers. The other courses on the "recommended" list are not actually taken by many students in the Applied Track, so we are deleting the recommendation to correspond with actual practice.

III. Implementation

1. How will the proposed revision affect students already in the existing program?

Current students will not be affected, the new requirements will apply only to students who matriculate after these changes are approved through the curricular process.

2. How will the proposed revision affect faculty teaching loads? Have additional faculty been authorized? If you are adding requirements, how will adequate seats be provided?

There will be no impact on faculty teaching loads. The changes reflect existing staffing and teaching loads, we are trying to make our catalog descriptions more accurately reflect the existing department personnel and scheduling patterns. No additional faculty lines will be required for these changes, nor are additional requirements part of this proposal.

3. Are other resources adequate?

Yes, there will be no resource implications of these changes. No additional courses are required, and many of our students already enroll in the "recommended" GEOG 104 course.

4. Do you expect an increase of decrease in numbers of students as a result of these revisions? If so, how will the department adjust?

We do not expect any changes in our numbers of majors or their preferred track as a consequence of this change.

IV. Course Proposals

No new courses are being proposed to satisfy the revision of this track in Anthropology.

V. Letters of Support

Enclosed is a letter of support from the Department of Geography & Regional Planning, as their course GEOG 104 will become a recommended course.

Enclosed is an email to the Department of Sociology reminding them of the changes as they pertain to their courses.

Hi Harvey, I just wanted to let you know about some curricular housekeeping that we are doing. We haven't had the Culture Area classes cross-listed in many years, and to the best of my memory ANTH 272 hasn't been taught in about 8 years, (even before Virginia's retirement), so we decided it was time to remove it from the catalog so we weren't engaged in false advertising. Hope you are well, Happy Hanukahl Miriam inactive course

ı,

Hi Rich, We have been trying to do some housekeeping on our curriculum, and we would like to have one course shifted to the "inactive" status. ANTH 272, Culture Area: China has not been offered in a number of years, and we have no likelihood of being able to staff this course in the near future, so we would like to have it moved to the inactive status in the next catalog. Let me know if you have any questions. Regards, Miriam Miriam Chaiken, ChairCurriculum CommitteeAnthropology Dept.

Subject: curricular changes

Hi Harvey.

I know you are aware of this as you have seen the curricular change proposals we submitted when they were reviewed by College Chairs early this semester, but I have been instructed by the University Wide Curriculum Committee and the Liberal Studies Committee to reiterate two minor changes that relate to the Sociology Department.

In the revisions of our Applied and General tracks we have:

- 1. Deleted SOC 151 as a "recommended" Liberal Studies Social Science area. We believe many students will still opt for this course, we just removed the "recommended" designation from the curriculum as we didn't believe it was needed.
- 2. Deleted SOC 447 as an alternative theory course (instead of ANTH 480). Obviously we had to address this as the old course SOC 447 no longer exists. We originally had that in the curriculum years ago because we weren't sure how regularly we'd be able to offer our theory course, but we have in fact offered ANTH 480 annually in the spring semester for at least the last 8 years, and we anticipate no change in this sequencing, so we have no difficulty offering sufficient seats of this course to meet our students' demand.

In both cases, we don't expect that our changes will have any impact on the enrollments for you folks in Sociology classes.

Let me know if you have any questions, have a good Thanksgiving.

Cheers,

Miriam

Hi Bob,

I'm still plugging away at curricular revisions, and we have one additional change that might affect your program. We would like to specify for students in the Applied Track (ca. 5 per year) that we are "recommending" GEOG 104 as one of their social science knowledge area courses. We feel this course in particular is a good complement to anthropology and would like to be more explicit about including it in our curriculum.

Does this meet with the approval of the folks in Geography & Regional Planning?

Regards,

Miriam
