2013 Ronald Lunardini Distinguished Alumni Award Winner Virginia Koch – Class of 1986

The Department of Student Affairs in Higher Education (SAHE) at Indiana University of Pennsylvania is pleased to announce Virginia Koch as the recipient of the Ronald Lunardini Distinguished Alumni Award for 2013.

Virginia is a 1986 graduate of SAHE (formerly the Student Personnel Services program) and is currently associate director of Residential Services at Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, and recently (2012) earned her Ph.D. in Higher Education from Loyola University Chicago.

Virginia started her professional career in student affairs in residence life at SUNY–College at Fredonia. In 1991, she moved to Evanston and began working at Northwestern in various capacities, including sorority affairs, new student programming, university relations, and eventually in residential life, where she has been promoted two times to the associate director position she now holds. Her contributions to the profession are highlighted by numerous national conference presentations, several publications, and many service activities for professional associations, including the Association of College and University Housing Officers–International, NASPA (Student Affairs Administrators in Higher Education), the Association for Student Conduct Administration, and the Association of Fraternity/Sorority Advisors.

In one letter of nomination, the author describes the way Virginia fulfills her role on campus as “caring and focused.” The nominator continues, “She looks for ways to improve our services for students and parents, and is an excellent collaborator. She is a highly motivated individual with a strong sense of responsibility toward every task she undertakes. She is a composed, confident, and reliable individual who thrives on a challenge and exhibits a heartfelt commitment to all tasks presented to her.”

The award selection committee (comprised of faculty, students, and alumni), in their review of the nomination materials for Virginia, unanimously affirmed that she meets and exceeds the award criteria, particularly in the areas of promoting student success, collaborating with colleagues, embracing lifelong learning, and contributing to the profession. Comments from members of the selection committee include, “Through her professional employment, she showed an overall fostering of student development and an enhancement of student learning” and “I was particularly impressed by her publications, presentations, and continued professional development.”

The Ronald Lunardini Distinguished Alumni Award, begun in 2006, was created to acknowledge an alumnus of the SAHE department whose experiences and accomplishments as a student affairs professional significantly reflect the standards and values of the SPS program/SAHE department. In 2008, in recognition of Ron Lunardini’s 37 years of service to IUP (18 as a SAHE faculty member), the award title was changed to honor him. Previous recipients include (starting with most recent): Rhonda Gifford ’93, Colleen Ruefle ’89, Julie Elkins ’85, Kevin Bailey ’90, Becky Verzinski ’94, Peter Groenendyk ’94, and Bob Gatti ’78.

End of the Year Reflection

Dr. John Wesley Lowery, Department Chair

Greetings from SAHE!

I hope that each of you is having a great semester and enjoying the arrival of spring. After a particularly long winter, everyone in western Pennsylvania is enjoying the first real taste of spring. With spring comes blooming flowers, students in shorts, the budding of the trees on the Oak Grove after the dull colors of winter. However, the surest sign of spring is my 9 year old daughter speeding around the neighborhood on her electric scooter and playing outside at every opportunity.

This has been a busy spring semester for everyone in SAHE. We had a very strong group of applicants to the program, many of whom were sent to us by our alumni. Last month, almost 60 prospective students visited campus for SAHE Visitation and Graduate Assistantship Interview Weekend. We are now in the process of making assistantship offers and a number of students have already committed to attend SAHE next year.

We have also been busy searching for a new faculty member to join the SAHE faculty. The faculty are very excited about the applicants. Feedback has also been positive from the students and other members of the IUP community who have met with the candidates as they have visited campus. We are hopeful that we will complete this search and announce the new faculty member by early this summer. We have been lucky this academic year to have Holley Hippensteel ('96) teaching in the program and we have appreciated her many contributions.

With the spring semester also comes the conference season and I had the opportunity to talk with a number of SAHE alumni at the ASCA and NASPA conferences which both took place in Florida as well as ACPA in Las Vegas. I was particularly pleased to see how many current SAHE students and alumni attended our reception at ACPA. All of the faculty traveled to ACPA as did approximately one-third of the current students. The full room made it impossible to talk to everyone, but I enjoyed speaking to a number of you. I would also like to acknowledge the generous support of Deena Kelly ('06) and Michael Dodge ('06) who again this year provided scholarships to several second year students to assist them in attending the ACPA Convention. This year, Diane Eshelman, Trista Shidler, and Allison Shumar received the Dodge-Kelly Scholarship.

Deena and Michael are not alone in supporting our current students either. Tom Baker ('05) along with his wife, Erin, also present an annual award to a first year student. This first year student will be recognized at the SAHE Banquet in May with the Get Involved! Award. If you are interested in sponsoring another award or support one of the existing awards, please let me know. You can also make a donation using the form which is included on the final page of this, and every, issue of Developments.

I sincerely hope that this newsletter finds you well! Please continue to share your news and updates with us. We deeply appreciate your continued hard work, support, and loyalty to SAHE.

Best wishes,

John Wesley Lowery, Ph.D.

Faculty Updates

Dr. Holley A. Belch

Greetings from the home of Jimmy Stewart! I hope this note finds you enjoying warmer weather and not a continuation of winter. Soothing summer are ahead –just have a little faith and patience. The spring semester is flying by and soon it will be graduation for all of us. It was great to see so many alums at ACPA in Las Vegas (won't be visiting there again) in March. It's always great to catch up with you and what is/has happened since last meeting/communicating. My research on students with psychiatric disabilities continues.

The summer will bring a respite from teaching. My efforts will focus on continuing research and writing for publication. The golf course, biking around Western PA, a visit to Vermont, and a beach vacation beckon me this summer to refresh and rejuvenate for next fall. Essentially, that's the point of having summer!

So, as the academic year comes to a close and you reflect on what was accomplished, what may not have worked out the way you wanted it to, and what lies ahead, remember to keep it all in perspective –“we admit it... there are still a few kinks that need working out” (Charlie Brown, August 29, 1998). Take time for yourself and others and enjoy the summer.

Holly B. Hippensteel ('96)

Hello and happy spring! The spring semester always seems to go by so quickly. Maybe it is the anticipation of summer or maybe it is a daylight savings time phenomenon but I continue to be amazed at how the weeks zip past this time of year. The temperatures here in Western PA have yet to reach spring-like but I am hopeful that things will heat up temperature wise just as they are activity wise. The second floor of Stouffer is abuzz with activity and energy these days. The talk of conferences and job searches, summer plans and practicum opportunities brings with it a sense of excitement and renewed opportunities.

For me, the realization that the semester is winding down brings conflicting emotions. I have really enjoyed the opportunity to teach Assessment with the first years and to continue my involvement with Practicum this semester. Teaching in the SAHE program has been an incredible experience that has afforded me opportunities to grow personally and professionally. I cannot believe that the year is almost over. Even though I have loved being back, I have to admit that I am looking forward to only having one job again and to giving my poor little Honda Accord a much needed rest in the garage.

This year-long experiment has reinforced for me how important it is to take risks and seek out new opportunities. Requesting a reduced work schedule at Carnegie Mellon, negotiating those responsibilities, navigating family obligations and teaching for the first time provided plenty of reasons to say “no thanks” when all of this came up. I have been reflecting back on that time quite a bit recently because I have started reading the new Sheryl Sandberg book, Lean In. The book has received some mixed reviews but it has a lot of people talking about if and to what degree women limit their professional potential because of the types of challenges that I just described. I am not far enough along in the book to know the degree to which I agree or disagree with Sandberg overall, but I do know that it would have been really easy for me to turn away from this teaching opportunity because it was too complicated or too risky. I am so glad that I took the leap. I hope that each of you create that type of experience for yourself at some point as well. We never know what we are capable of until we try.

Thank you again to all of the students as well as Holley and the Johns for making me feel so welcomed back to SAHE. I look forward to keeping in touch with all of you through student and alumni updates in Developments, via email, and as our paths continue to cross. All the best to you and see you soon.

Dr. John A. Mueller

Greetings from western PA! IUP's academic calendar pushed the start of the spring semester into late January this year. It seems as though the start of spring itself has gotten pushed back a few weeks later as well; winter has been hanging on here into late March. It's been a very busy winter with several writing deadlines, an early ACPA conference, our faculty search, and a successful Visitation weekend. I am so looking forward to May and to the promise of spring and summer! I am especially looking forward to June when I pack my bags, dust off my passport, and fly half-way around the world to China for a study tour of its higher educational system. Much of the two-week tour will be devoted to Beijing and Shanghai. I will be staying on for an third week to tour Xi'an and Hong Kong as well. Best wishes to all as the days get longer and usher in the warmth of summer.

IUP Student Affairs in Higher Education Well-Represented at American College Personnel Association Convention

Second-year students Diane Eshelman, Trista Shideler, and Allison Shumar were the recipients of the Dodge-Kelly ACPA Scholarship. This scholarship, established by SAHE '06 alumni Michael Dodge and Deena Kelly, provides financial support to selected second-year SAHE students and covers the cost of their registration for the ACPA convention.

Other notable activities at the convention included: recognition of Cory Campbell ('13) at the ACPA Awards Reception as a recipient of the Pennsylvania College Personnel Association Case Study award; recognition of Windi Sasaki ('04) as the recipient of the ACPA Latino Network John Hernandez award; a retirement resolution honoring Linda Hall read into the minutes of the ACPA annual business meeting; and the IUP SAHE reception, hosted by chairperson John Wesley Lowery, for over 50 SAHE students and alumni.

IUP SAHE Alumni & Friends Reception at ACPA

We enjoyed the opportunity to reunite with alumni and our students appreciated meeting more members of the IUP SAHE community. If you were in attendance, we hope that you had a good time as well. We will see you next year at the ACPA convention in Indianapolis!

SAHE Visitation & Graduate Assistantship Interview Weekend

On March 10th through 11th, the SAHE department held its annual Visitation & Graduate Assistantship Weekend. Fifty-seven prospective SAHE students joined us from all major parts of the United States. Adding to the geographic and experiential diversity of the cohort, students represented a variety of academic majors such as music, business administration, communication studies, and exercise and sport sciences. Students and graduate assistantship supervisors have provided positive feedback and believe it was a successful event. Alumni involvement is a vital piece to the success of the Visitation program as well as all SAHE recruitment events. Students frequently speak about how SAHE alumni have inspired them to enter the field of student affairs. To our alumni—thank you and job well done! Your recruitment efforts are appreciated!

Additional Department News

SAHE Faculty Search Update

Since the application deadline, December 7, 2013, the SAHE faculty and staff have been working tirelessly to search for and select the most qualified faculty member who meets the needs and will fit in with the culture of the department. We screened five outstanding candidates through phone interviews during February and narrowed down a list of the top three to bring in for in-person interviews. These in-person interviews took place throughout the month of April and consisted of meetings with faculty, student affairs professionals, and students. Professionals and students had the opportunity to provide feedback regarding each candidate. An announcement of our new SAHE faculty member will be made early this summer.

Associates for Student Development (ASD) Update

Submitted by Sarah Conte ('14), VP for Public Relations

This snowy spring semester began with ice skating at the White Township Recreation Complex in Indiana, PA. Although the range of skating abilities varied greatly, we had a lot of fun! This is only one of the many social events ASD plans and sponsors throughout the semester.

ASD participated in SAHE's annual Visitation weekend in mid-March. Prospective students were provided with information about how to join ASD, as well as the many benefits that arise from membership. They also received a very thorough packet outlining information about current SAHE students, including their educational background, current assistantship, and a photo. This is distributed so that prospective students may contact someone they can relate to with questions about the program.

On March 10, 2013, after the first day of Visitation, ASD hosted a mini-Carnival in Wallwork Hall. Prospective and current students gathered for Minute to Win It games and a variety of board games, crafts, and snacks. With music in the air, great conversations occurred and a few new friendships were forged with potential members of SAHE's incoming cohort.

ASD would also like to acknowledge the good work of the former executive board from 2012—Andrew Kent, Nathaniel Ziegler, Michelle Wadleigh, Diane Eshelman, and Gabbi Calabro—as well as the organization's faculty advisor, Dr. Mueller. Please feel welcome to follow us on Twitter @SAHEASD for updates and reminders as the year progresses.
