PURPOSE:

The university is committed to effective records retention to preserve its history, meet legal standards, optimize the use of space, minimize the cost of record retention, and ensure that outdated and useless records are destroyed.

SCOPE:

The University Policy for the Retention of Records is applicable to all departmental offices and other offices of the University and the university records (see the "Definitions" Section of this document) created, maintained and disposed of by those offices.

OBJECTIVE:

Indiana University of Pennsylvania requires consistent treatment of records. Maintenance, retention, and disposal procedures for university records (see the "Definitions" Section of this document) must be followed systematically by staff in designated official repositories.

In addition, duplicate or multiple copies of these records, retained in locations other than official repositories (see the "Definitions" Section of this document), must also be disposed of when they are outdated and no longer useful.

This policy is intended to ensure that the university:

- meets legal standards;
- optimizes the use of space;
- minimizes the cost of record retention;
- preserves the history of the university;
- destroys outdated and useless records.

POLICY:

Indiana University of Pennsylvania requires that different types of records be retained for specific periods of time, and has designated official repositories for their maintenance. These records must be managed according to procedures that are outlined in this document.

DEFINITIONS:

These definitions apply to these terms as they are used in this policy:

Active Record	A record with current administrative use for the department that generated it. Records remain active for varying numbers of years, depending on the purpose for which they were created.
Archival Record	A record that is inactive; not required to be retained in the office in which it originated or was received; and has permanent or historic value. Archival records are retained and preserved indefinitely in the University Archives.
E-Mail Record	An e-mail record with current administrative, legal or fiscal value. Records remain active for varying numbers of years, depending on the purpose for which they were created. Records remain active for varying numbers of years, depending on the purpose for which they were created.
E-Mail Non-Record	Communications that serve no administrative, legal or fiscal purpose to the University. It contains information that is personal, chit-chat, information only or will be maintained by a separate department for operational, fiscal or legal purposes. E-mail non-records are to be disposed of immediately.
E-Mail Transitory Record	A Transitory e-mail record has short term administrative, legal or fiscal value once the administrative, legal or fiscal use has expired, has little or no documentary or evidential value or is useful for a short period of time to ensure that a task is complete or prepare a final product. A transitory e-mail record should be disposed of as soon as it is no longer needed for evaluation or discussion toward a final product.

DEFINITIONS (Continued):

Official Repository	The unit designated as having responsibility for retention and timely destruction of particular types of official university records. Such responsibility is assigned to the unit's administrative manager or a designee.
Open Records Officer	A designated employee of the university that receives requests submitted to the university under the Commonwealth's Right to Know Law, Act 2008-3, directs requests to other appropriate persons within the university or to appropriate persons in another agency, monitors the university's progress in response to requests to assure compliance and issues interim and final responses under the Right to Know Act.
Possession of a Record	A record possessed by the university or a record in the possession of a third party with who the university has contracted.
Right to Know Record	A record, including a financial record, of the university that is not exempt under section 708 of the Right to Know Law, Act 2008-3, is not exempt from being disclosed under any other Federal or State law or regulation or judicial order or decree, or is not protected by a privilege.
University Archives	This includes permanent retention of official records and reports of the university, its officers and component parts; maps and architectural records; audiovisual materials including still photographs and negatives, motion picture film, oral history interviews, audio and video tapes; and artifacts and ephemera documenting the university's history.
University Archivist	The individual responsible for 1) designating which official university records are archival; and 2) effecting the transfer of archival records from the office in which they originated or were received to the University Archives at such times and in the manner and form prescribed by the Archives and subject to the appropriate retention and disposition schedules that are outlined in this document.

PROCEDURES:

Responsibilities for Managing Official University Records

Departments that maintain university records are called “official repositories.” These administrative units are responsible for establishing appropriate record retention management practices. Each department’s administrative manager or a designee must:

- implement the unit’s and/or office’s record management practices;
- ensure that these management practices are consistent with this policy;
- educate staff within the administrative unit in understanding sound record management practices;
- preserve inactive records (see the “Definitions” Section of this document) of historic value, and transfer those records to the University Archives;
- ensure that access to confidential files is restricted. Long term restrictions on access to selected archival records should be negotiated at the time of their transfer to the University Archives;
- destroy inactive records that have no archival value upon passage of the applicable retention period.

PROCEDURES (Continued):

If you have any questions about your responsibilities, contact the University Records Manager (see the “Contacts” Section of this document), who will work closely with you to ensure understanding of this policy and implementation of these responsibilities.

Preserving or Disposing of Official University Records

When the prescribed retention period (see Tables I and II, which follow) for official university records has passed, a determination of whether to preserve or dispose of the documents must be made. To decide if the record is of historic value to the university, consult the University Archivist (see the “Definitions” Section of this document) who has the authority to designate which records are archival.

Option A Archival Records

If you have determined that the records are archival, they may be transferred to University Archives (see the “Definitions” Section of this document). Call the University Records Manager to:

1. Review records to be sent to University Archives.
2. Request archival boxes (1 full file drawer=2 boxes).
3. Request a transfer from department to Archived Records.
 - Physical Records – Enter a work order to have the documents transferred by Grounds.
 - Electronic Records – Contact the IT Department.

Option B Non-archival Records

If you have determined that it is appropriate to dispose of the records, destroy them in one of the following ways:

1. Recycle non-confidential paper records.
2. Shred or otherwise render unreadable confidential records.
3. Erase or destroy electronically stored data with the exception of records which are logged as part of the institutions record imaging systems.

Option C Imaged Records

Federal guidelines indicate that imaged records remain part of the permanent record.

Caution: Periodically review records generated and maintained in university information systems or equipment (including mainframe, mini, and micro computing/storage systems) to ensure that these requirements are met.

PROCEDURES (Continued):

Records Retention: Tables 1 and 2, which follow, list the official repositories for university records as well as how long these records must be retained.

Location and Duration

Record retention periods may be increased by government regulation, judicial or administrative consent order, private or governmental contract, pending litigation or audit requirements. Such modifications supersede the requirements listed in this policy. Suspension of record destruction required by any of these reasons will be accomplished by a notice sent out to affected units by the Office of Legal Counsel, the University Audit Office located in the office of Institutional Research and Planning Assessment, or the Office of the Vice President for Finance and Administration.

Note: No document list can be exhaustive. Questions regarding the retention period for any specific document or class of documents not included in these tables should be addressed with University Legal Counsel.

Caution: Departments and units that are not official repositories and that retain duplicate or multiple copies of these university records should dispose of them when they are no longer useful or as defined by this policy.

Additions, Modifications, and Deletions to the Policy

The university is a dynamic entity. Additions, modifications and deletions will be required to maintain suitable documentation of the university's record keeping policy.

Additions, modifications, and deletions to the retention policy are the responsibility of the appropriate vice president accountable for the records. University faculty, staff and administrators shall make recommendations for alterations to the policy through their appropriate vice president. The appropriate vice president approves or disapproves the recommendation for inclusion in the retention policy. The vice president forwards approved recommendations to the university records manager. The university records manager forwards the recommended changes to university legal and the university's internal auditor for review, possible modification and approval. The recommendation is then forwarded to the president for review and approval. Amendments approved by the president will be effected into the retention policy by the university records manager.

Amendments to the policy necessitated by government regulation, PASSHE or university legal council directive will be implemented by the university records manager after review by the president. The university records manager will notify appropriate vice presidents when a change is necessitated by directive or statute.
