(M) Catalog Description*

Guidelines: Do not include pre/co-requisite information here. The registrar prefers a concise description of course content, beginning with an active verb.

Focuses on techniques for collecting, analyzing, and interpreting data from historic period (1500 to present) artifacts commonly found on North American archaeological sites. Analytic techniques, including classification, quantification of attributes, relating artifact patterns to human activities, and statistical interpretation are taught in a hands-on environment. Outlines the history of technology as a means to identify the age and use of artifacts. Considers that all objects occurred as a thought before they were made material and how to work backwards from the material to the thought.

(N) Student Learning Outcomes*

These should be measurable, appropriate to the course level, and phrased in terms of student achievement, not instructional or content outcomes

If dual listed, indicate additional learning objectives for the higher level course.

At the completion of this course, students will be able to:

- 1) Demonstrate skills in the identification of historic period artifacts,
- 2) Describe the characteristics of historical artifact analysis and relate artifact analysis to the larger goals of archaeology and anthropology,
- 3) Evaluate the quality and appropriateness of artifact inventories and reports in historical archaeological publications,
- 4) Conduct semi-independent research utilizing historic period artifacts.

Graduate students will additionally be able:

- 1) Conduct independent research utilizing a large collection of artifact data prepared by numerous different archaeologists,
- 2) Ask and answer anthropological questions based on historic period artifacts.

(O) Brief Course Outline*

Give an outline of sufficient detail to communicate the course content to faculty across campus. It is not necessary to include specific readings, calendar, or assignments

As outlined by the federal definition of a "credit hour", the following should be a consideration regarding student work - For every one hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction, there should be a minimum of two hours of out of class student work.

Week 1: Course Introduction and Ceramic Manufacture and Terminology

Week 2: Ceramic Manufacture and Terminology

Week 3: Dating and Interpretation of Ceramic Decoration, 1610-1900

Week 4: Dating and Interpretation of Glass Containers, 1620-1920

Week 11: Documents as Artifacts

Week 12: Basic Statistics and Database Management

Week 13: Interpretation of Archaeological Assemblages

Week 14: From Artifacts to People

Assemblage presentations

Students will complete weekly assignments that require approximately 2 hours of work, in addition to approximately 3 hours of reading per week. Students will also complete an artifact analysis project that requires approximately 20 hours to complete. On average students will have 6.5 hours of work per week outside of class.

Rationale for Proposal

(P) Why Is this Course Being Proposed?*

The proposed course has been taught three times previously under the generic title of ANTH 484/584 Specialized Methods in Archaeology. Granting this course its own number codifies past practice and allows current and prospective students to better plan for the course as part of their curriculum.
