Dear Colleague,

I am pleased to announce that Fairfax County Public Schools will sponsor internships in school psychology for the 2023-24 scholastic year. We anticipate funding to support three full-time, one-year appointments, and we invite applicants for Masters-level or Doctoral-level placements.

Fairfax County Public Schools offers a rigorous and comprehensive internship program for training psychologists. We are a large and diverse community located in Northern Virginia near Washington, DC. With over 170 psychologists and 218 schools, centers, and alternative programs, we provide interns with a broad range of professional and cultural experiences.

Our goal is to prepare interns as mental-health professionals whose practice will reflect our commitment to the Model for Comprehensive and Integrated School Psychological Services published by the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP). In consultation with university faculty, we identify a primary supervisor with whom the intern will train throughout the year. To complement this placement, we offer interns the opportunity to work in a specialty rotation each quarter (e.g., centers for students with emotional disabilities, severe disabilities, hearing impairments, autism, etc.) depending on the interests, skills, and goals of the intern. We also provide opportunities for the intern to engage in training and research. Upon successful completion of the internship, we welcome interns to apply for employment with Fairfax County Public Schools. Compensation for the intern includes individual and group supervision, in-service training, and a stipend of $25,000 (without other benefits).

A summary of the application procedures and timelines is attached to this letter. The deadline for receipt of the complete application packet is Friday, December 2, 2022. These materials should be sent by e-mail to dmdesaulnier@fcps.edu or by mail to the address listed on the following page.
