Rationale for Proposed Changes (All Categories)

(A) Why is the course being revised /deleted:* Please be specific - this should be have more detail than the Summary for the Senate.	The Art Education program is making the program changes to better serve Art Education students. The current course offerings are outdated, and do not reflect the current state of the field of Art Education. In Fall 2020, our first cohort of students who will be eligible for a year-long student teaching internship will enter into the new course sequence. We are adding five new courses: ARED 101: Introduction to Art Education (3 credits), ARED 323: Community and Museum Art Education (new elective course), ARED 324: Art Education and Special Populations (new elective course), ARED 325: Art Education and Visual Culture (new elective course) ARED 326: Art Education and Digital Technology 2. We are adding one course revision (ARED 315 becomes ARED 215). ARED 315 can become 215 because of our addition of ARED 101. ARED 101 will focus on the introductory aspects of Art Education while ARED 215 will focus on issues in the field. In this way, ARED 315 (which previously did both) will be split into two courses with ARED 101 being an introduction and ARED 215 being issues. ARED 101: Introduction to Art Education (new course) will introduce student to the structure of the Art Education program at IUP, and will introduce basic topics such as the history of art education, lesson planning, public speaking, and professionalism. Current students do not typically take Art Education coursework until they are sophomore status. This prevents them from progressing through the program as a cohort, causing confusion with regards to scheduling, particularly with regards to the 3 Step Process outlined by the College of Education and Communication. ARED 215: Issues in Art Education (currently 315) will then be able to deal more directly with current issues in Art Education, as the course description is written: An overview of art education within K-12 programs. Requirements and responsibilities of art teachers are explored in the context of becoming a professional educator. Curriculum and assessment issues pertaining to state standards are examined. Various populations of students, as well as various teaching contexts, are featured in lectures, readings, and discussions. Art teaching is viewed as a dynamic discipline as contemporary issues within art, art education, and general education are studied. Also provides information regarding the teaching of art with special needs populations.
(B) University Senate Summary of Rationale*	Please enter a single paragraph summary/rationale of changes or proposal for University Senate. Because of our addition of ARED 101, ARED 215: Issues in Art Education (currently 315) will then be able to deal more directly with current issues in Art Education, as the course description is written: An overview of art education within K-12 programs. Requirements and responsibilities of art teachers are explored in the context of becoming a professional educator. Curriculum and assessment issues pertaining to state standards are examined. Various populations of students, as well as various teaching contexts, are featured in lectures, readings, and discussions. Art teaching is viewed as a dynamic discipline as contemporary issues within art, art education, and general education are studied. Also provides information regarding the teaching of art with special needs populations. We are changing the course title and updating the catalog description to reflect the current state of inclusivity in the field which ranges beyond K-12 programs to include community-based and museum art education programs as well.
(C) Implications of the change on the program, other programs and the Students:*	For current students, ARED 101 and ARED 215 will not be a requirement. Students in Art Education beginning Fall 2019 will be required to take ARED 101, replacing ARED 320: Art Criticism and Aesthetics, so the total required credits will not change.
