Part II. Description of Curricular Change

1. Proposed catalog description

ENGL 313 Rhetorical Trends and Traditions 3c-0l-3cr
Prerequisites: ENGL 101

A survey of the major issues in and uses of rhetorical theory and criticism in contemporary culture, using rhetorical concepts from ancient through contemporary times. Rhetoric is the humanistic study of the ways people manipulate language and try to persuade others in the social world.

2. Current catalog description

ENGL 313 The Rhetorical Tradition 3c-01-3cr
Prerequisites: ENGL 101, 310
A survey of rhetorical theory from Greek and Roman through modern times.

3. Rationale

Name change

 from The Rhetorical Tradition
 to Rhetorical Trends and Traditions

Prerequisite changes from ENGL 101 and 310
 to ENGL 101

Description change:

 from:

 A survey of rhetorical theory from Greek and Roman through modern times.

 A survey of the major issues in and uses of rhetorical theory and criticism in contemporary culture, using rhetorical concepts from ancient through contemporary times. Rhetoric is the humanistic study of the ways people manipulate language and try to persuade others in the social world.

This course has not attracted sufficient enrollment to run in recent years because students don't know what rhetoric is and may be intimidated by the sole focus on theory in the original description. The name change and description change more accurately reflect a pedagogically sound way to teach rhetorical theory: students will be more interested in learning rhetorical theory when they see how it can be applied to issues in contemporary culture and their lives. The prerequisite change eliminates a course that is unnecessary for this course (ENGL 310, Public Speaking).

PART III: Letters of Support or Acknowledgement

No other department will be affected by this prerequisite change.
