DELETE

The Bachelor of Science in Education-Nutrition Education from the catalog.

Justifications

The B.S. in Nutrition Education program no longer offers the students professional employment opportunities. As recommended by the reviewers at the last self-study for the Department of Food and Nutrition, we are requesting a deletion of this degree option, but request that the degree program be filed in the university curriculum archives pending a future need for this degree program.

Effect on current students

Currently only one student is enrolled in this program. This student will be allowed to complete the curriculum.

Dr. John Butzow, Dean
College of Education

Dear Dr. Butzow:

The Department of Food and Nutrition is proposing to the University Senate that the Bachelor of Science in Education-Nutrition Education be deleted from the university curriculum.

This program no longer offers the students professional employment opportunities. As recommended by the reviewers at the last self-study for the department, we are requesting a deletion of this degree option. Currently only one student is enrolled in this program. This student will be allowed to complete the curriculum.

Sincerely,

Joanne B. Steiner, Ph.D., R.D.
Chairperson
