3. Rationale

This change is being made to allow a more appropriate course to be provided for teacher education majors who will work with secondary school students or students within a specific subject-matter specific classroom. It replaces an older, more generic course (EX 300, 3 credits) that attempted to reach teacher preparation students, K-12

The new EX 301 course examines the issues associated with education of students with diverse learning needs, particularly those with disabilities or who are at risk for school failure. The new course requirement emphasizes instructional techniques and related procedures appropriate for use in inclusive classrooms which include students experiencing disabilities and cultural/linguistic diversity.
