Part II. Description of the Curriculum Change

1. An exact statement of what is to be deleted

PHIL 410 Contemporary Analytic Philosophy

3c-01-3cr

Examines Anglo-American philosophy from the early 20th century onward. Explores early attempts to solve traditional philosophical problems with newly developed methods of logical and linguistic analysis, and latter challenges to such attempts. Authors may include Frege, Russell, Moore, Wittgenstein, Ayer, Austin, Quine, Davidson, Strawson, and Sellars.

2. Justification/Rationale

This course deletion is associated with our PHIL and PHIL/Pre-Law program revisions. This course was part of our old controlled-electives disjunction in the history of philosophy, which required students to take either Ancient Philosophy (PHIL 324) or Modern Philosophy (PHIL 325), and one other of Ancient Philosophy, Modern Philosophy, Phenomenology and Existentialism (PHIL 326), or Contemporary Analytic Philosophy (410). This disjunction does not exist in the new program. Since contemporary analytic philosophy is linguistic philosophy, our existing PHIL 460 (Philosophy of Language) course is sufficient to acquaint students with some of the subject matter previously covered in PHIL 410.

3. A description of how this change will affect existing courses, programs, etc. and how the deletion will affect students currently enrolled in the program.

Under the new program, both PHIL 324 and PHIL 325 are required courses, and PHIL 326 will be under a new controlled-electives category. Since these courses will be offered regularly, current students who choose to complete the old program will be able to satisfy the controlled-electives disjunction in the history of philosophy.

Part III. Letters of Support or Acknowledgement

No other departments are affected by this deletion.
