Indiana University of Pennsylvania
December 11, 2025

Tom Segar, vice president for Student Affairs, gave opening remarks about the Student Affairs Division.

Paula Stossel, strategic advisor to the president for Student Success, provided a briefing on spring 2026 registration progress.

Dr. Segar provided a briefing on fall 2026 new student enrollment progress.

Roger Briscoe, executive director of Student Inclusion, and Susan Graham, clinical case manager, spoke about meeting the basic needs of IUP students. Their presentation highlighted the vital role that providing case management and addressing food insecurity play in supporting student success and in strengthening retention and persistence.

Ms. Graham provided an overview of how case management services identify student needs early, remove personal and academic barriers, and connect students with essential on-campus and community resources. She spoke on how individualized support, creative problem-solving, and coordinated care contribute to improved student well-being and academic persistence.

Dr. Briscoe discussed the student needs that are met with the IUP Food Pantry and Help Center. He discussed the operation of the pantry and said the key to its operation is the ongoing support of the IUP and Indiana communities, which provide monetary and food donations. A recent campus-wide food drive started November 10 and will end December 12.
